SUMMARY

I have worked in technology companies and startups across engineering, product management and sales roles for over 8 years. I co-founded a B2B product company with a Social CRM app. With an IIT and IIM background, I am an expert at web and mobile development, product management and analytics. I am very hands-on and still love to code in my spare time. Some of my technical work can be seen here:

I am now looking for product management or engineering roles at early stage startups. I am willing to relocate.
